CASA Kudos

JB- For advocating and supporting a child for many years as she aged out of foster care. Thank you for being a consistent presence in her life.

Cathy J.- for taking a new case.

Georgia- For advocating for her CASA child's best interest as he is transitioning back home to his biological family.

Susan F.- for working closely with the parents on her case as the children transition back into the home.

Loraine W.- for advocating for her CASA child's needs with counseling and behavioral health services.

Kudos to Ann Michael for seeing her case through to adoption.

Kudos to Greg Byrum for seeing his case through to reunification.

Kudos to Janice Mauz for helping the mother of her CASA child with grants for day care and researching car repairs.

Kudos to Nancy T., Julie B., Patricia B., and Deb O. for taking the opportunity to attend the Child Abuse Prevention Conference at the end of July 😊

Kudos to Bart B. for taking his first case!

Kudos to Pat S., Jeni O., Rose V.N., Laura P., Miranda F., Diane J., and Elizabeth S. for their continued dedication and commitment to traveling the distances outside of Yavapai County to visit their CASA kiddos!

HOW DOES A CASA ADVOCATE SUPPORT THE CASE PLAN OF REUNIFICATION?

Reunification is often the initial case plan goal. CASA volunteers play a vital role in not only advocating for the child, but also building a relationship with the parents, and helping them build a positive support system within their community. CASAs can identify appropriate resources that support reunification including mental health services, substance abuse treatment, parenting classes, and other services.

CASAs conduct additional research. They speak to teachers, case workers, pediatricians, biological parents, foster parents, and others. Then, knowing everything about the children and the case, they make recommendations to the court on behalf of the children about what would be in the child's best interest moving forward.

CASA volunteers play an integral role in their cases by collaborating with DCS, placements, biological parents, attorneys, and the children to assess the progress of the case and ensure that the child's best interest is always being kept in mind. By maintaining these positive relationships and communicating with all parties involved, it greatly increases the opportunities for families to be reunified.

CASAs see all sides of the foster care system. Poverty does not mean that someone should lose their child. In the realm of foster care, some placements may seem like the "savior" when they can offer a nicer life for a child. But the goal is to get these children back with their parents when safe and appropriate to do so.

Seeing a child reunify with their family is one of the brightest moments of being a CASA volunteer and highlights the important role that an advocate plays in the foster care system.

CASAs Self-Care Responses

As a follow up to last month's article on self-care for CASAs, we wanted to share the responses that were received from CASAs and what self-care looks like for them:

Nancy T. – “Spending time with healthy kids in healthy families.”

Miranda F. - “Creating space to reset and get organized. I find that taking intentional time to plan and prepare helps me feel more centered and balanced. I believe in “planning tomorrow today” as a form of self-care. It allows me to be more mindful about what will need my attention and helps me show up fully for myself and for the commitments I’ve made. When I take the time to reset and organize, I feel more grounded and better able to support others, including the children I advocate for as a CASA.”

Diane J. – “For relaxing and chilling out, I enjoy reading and playing video games on my Kindle. Time spent with my grandsons always leaves me smiling and in a great mood! Spending time with my CASA kids has very much the same effect. Seeing them happy and content is soothing to my soul!”

Laura P. - “My favorite hobby is also what helps me relax the most, and that is getting out with my camera and photographing birds (and other wildlife if I see it). This gets me out in nature, I get exercise, and I love the challenge it can be to get decent photos of the birds I see. I try to do this at least once a week.”

CASA SPOTLIGHT

with Greg Byrum

1. How long have you been a CASA and how many kiddos have you advocated for?

I graduated Academy in March 2023 & got my first case in April 2023. I'm still with my first case (2 1/2 years) & I took another case with 2 children in August 2024. I'm still with them as well.

2. What drew you to volunteer for the CASA Program?

I was involved with Voices for Children in San Diego since the mid-90's, and while I was never a CASA there I knew that I would someday become one. When I moved to Yavapai County in late 2022 I knew the time was right.

3. What has been your biggest challenge since becoming an advocate?

In the beginning it was just absorbing all the terminology and trying to get up to speed. Eventually, it's learning that you can't solve every problem that arises, and things don't always turn out the way you want them to.

4. What is most rewarding about being a CASA?

That I am making a difference in children's lives (although it doesn't always feel that way!!), and that my involvement with them will hopefully pay off for them in their futures.

5. What training (besides Academy) has been most helpful for you in your work as a CASA?

All of the trainings that I have attended have been helpful in one way or another, but the ones that stand out for me are Dependency 101, Team Decision Making (TDM) overview, & Identifying Coping Skills for Children.

6. What advice would you give a new CASA?

I've had the opportunity to speak to several graduating classes, and the first thing I say when I'm asked this question is to tell people to expect the unexpected. You just never know how a case is going to end up. I would also tell new CASA's to ask for guidance & advice from their CASA supervisor on a regular basis. They are a great source information & support and they are there to help us do better jobs of advocating for our kiddos.

NEW

WRAPPED IN LOVE POTTY TRAINING KITS!

Wrapped in Love (WiL) Diaper Bank's mission is to alleviate the cost of diapers, period products, and incontinence supplies, and strengthen resource use of programs and services for struggling families. Currently, WiL serves 322 children each month with diapers or pull-ups, ointment, and a tub of wipes.

WiL recognizes that the cost of diapers can strain a family's budget, making it a struggle to purchase this vital part of hygiene care. Additionally, potty training is not limited to a specific age and is one of the most challenging and messy milestones for a child.

To assist families, WiL created a potty-training kit that can be ordered through the agencies we work with to deliver diapers. The kit saves families approximately $150 per month and reduces the number of diapers and pull-ups in landfills. It also helps prepare children for preschool and kindergarten. Our kit includes a potty chair OR toilet training seat, step stool, bed protector, training pants, leak-proof pants cover, a book for the child, a book for parents, (both available in English or Spanish), and a prize of new 'big kid underpants or underwear'. Each kit comes in a storage bag that can be reused for easy transportation, which is especially important for the homeless population. In addition, we send an order of pull-ups to help with the transition and a card congratulating the child on their success.

WiL can process up to 5 orders for kits each month, which are placed through the agency serving the family. Case managers and home visitors report that families are thrilled to be able to obtain the necessary items for transitioning their child out of diapers.

Please contact your coordinator if you would like to order one of these fabulous potty training kits.

Thank You

To Lori from WiL for information!

Hello,

it was brought to my attention that there have been several recent issues with receiving grant funding and communication from the Yavapai CASA for Kids Foundation. I reached out to Yvonne Bartlett, the Director, to share these concerns, and she asked me to share with you the following:

Please let the CASAs know that, if they have not heard from me and are waiting for a grant, please reach out and let me know.

Right now, we are rearranging the application process for better tracking; however, it has slowed down the process. Additionally, our grants person had health issues that interrupted the processing of grants, and then, after being back for a week, she had to leave the position entirely, which left me with no grant processor and a stack of requests still needing to be filled. Since July, I have processed over 60 grant requests, which is quite a lot, since we order items, send checks, send gift cards, track orders, etc. It is quite complex. I am hoping we are caught up on all of the requests now.

I ask that you please be patient while the YC4K office works through these challenges. If possible, please request funding well in advance, and plan on 3-4 weeks for a response. If you have not heard anything from them about your request, please email Yvonne at yvonne@yavapaicasaforkids.org. You can also apply for grant funding with the Arizona Friends of Foster Children. More information can be found at <https://www.affcf.org/ways-we-help/childhood-activities/>. Please let me know if you have any additional questions or concerns. I really appreciate ALL you do for children in Yavapai County!

Substance Use in Pregnancy & Beyond: Impacts on Parents and Baby

Presented by David Barko, Family Resource Center Director, Dignity Health Yavapai Regional Medical Center

This presentation explores the profound effects of substance use during pregnancy on both maternal and fetal health. It examines the impact of various substances on prenatal development, birth outcomes, and long-term child development. Topics such as polysubstance use, co-occurring mental health disorders, and Neonatal Abstinence Syndrome (NAS) are discussed using current research, real-world scenarios, and public health data.

A critical component of the presentation highlights prevention and early intervention strategies, including the role of Healthy Families America (HFA)—an evidence-based home visitation program. HFA supports families through prenatal education, postnatal follow-up, developmental monitoring, and connection to substance use treatment and community resources. The program's trauma-informed and strengths-based approach helps reduce risk factors, promote protective factors, and improve long-term outcomes for both parents and children.

The presentation concludes with practical tools, screening approaches, and resource referrals to support healthier pregnancies and family well-being.

Silent Struggles, Lasting Grace: Reconciling the Emotional Costs of Child Welfare Work

Sufna John, Ph.D

A licensed psychologist and Associate Professor at the University of Arkansas for Medical Sciences in Little Rock, Arkansas. She specializes in infant and early childhood mental health, supporting families within the child welfare system, workforce development in infant and early childhood systems, and cross-system collaboration to support families who have experienced trauma. She supports the work of several organizations dedicated to improving the lives of young children who have experienced trauma - leading workgroups, providing training, and developing resources for ZERO TO THREE, the National Infant and Early Childhood Mental Health Training and Technical Assistance Center (TTAC), and the National Child Traumatic Stress Network (NCTSN). She is passionate about partnering with various child-serving systems (e.g., child advocacy centers, education, child welfare) to promote equitable and trauma-informed practices for caregivers and young children.

This session will explore the hidden emotional weight carried by professionals in the child welfare system as they help families heal from trauma—often while working within a system that can unintentionally cause further harm. Together, we'll reflect on the idea of moral injury and share practical ways to process the emotional impact of this work, helping us return to a place of self-compassion and kindness toward our colleagues.

LABELED: WARD OF THE STATE BY KENISHA E. ANTHONY

An abandoned child of drug-addicted parents and Florida's broken child-welfare system, Kenisha E. Anthony was left to wonder if anyone would ever want her. As a young girl, desperate for love and belonging, she bounced from one unstable home to the next, packing only resentment, abandonment, and heartbreak to take with her. Still, Kenisha found her way, ultimately breaking barriers and shattering statistics.

Against advice to "just get a GED," she earned both an undergraduate and graduate degree with the aid of tuition exemption per Florida Statute 1009.25(1)(d), a resource for children aging out of foster care. As an advocate for change in the child welfare system, she found her voice in the presence of state legislators and earned a name as a dynamic professional and change-maker in the field of social work.

Kenisha shines a spotlight on life through the lens of a survivor with a vivid portrait of her journey from victim to victor, rising above hardships that could have easily left her defeated and destitute. This is a story of triumph, redemption, and the will to become more than just a Ward of the State. Teeming with vulnerability, candor, and wisdom, this unfiltered reflection of Kenisha's life is, fittingly, more than a memoir. It is a social awareness tool for anyone who's faced adversity, beat the odds, and refused to be labeled.
